

15 Objects Reimagined Narrative Prompts

1. Your pencil begins whispering hints during class. Write about hearing it speak and your dilemma when it offers to help during a test.
2. Your old sneakers transport you to where they were last worn. Describe stepping into someone's donated shoes and finding yourself somewhere unexpected.
3. Your bathroom mirror shows glimpses of your true self and potential futures. Capture the moment you notice this change and its effect on your routine.
4. Your backpack contains infinite space where anything can be found. Write about discovering this power and pulling out something impossible during lunch.
5. Your headphones play music matching the emotions of anyone nearby. Write about a bus ride where you suddenly understand everyone's hidden feelings.
6. You inherit a wristwatch that records memories of everyone who's worn it. Describe discovering you can access these memories.
7. You find notes in library book margins from readers spanning decades. Write about discovering what they're communicating with each other through time.
8. You find an old camera whose photos show the future of photographed locations. Describe your moment of discovery.
9. Objects in a thrift store jacket's pockets transport you into previous owners' memories. Write about experiencing someone else's pivotal moment.
10. One doorknob in your new home opens doors to different places depending on how it's turned. Write about your discovery.
11. Your phone displays what people really mean instead of what they text. Write about realizing this during a conversation that changes your understanding of a friend.
12. A paperclip reshapes itself to solve problems around you. Capture when you first notice this during a stressful study session.
13. An old teacup reveals different stories when filled with different teas. Write about discovering a story that parallels your own situation.
14. Your bedroom light bulb emits light that influences emotions. Write about realizing you can affect how people feel and the responsibility this brings.
15. Your eyeglasses translate any written text regardless of language or complexity. Write about when this reveals something you weren't supposed to know.

Magical Transformations

1. Your pencil begins whispering hints during class. Write about hearing it speak and your dilemma when it offers to help during a test.
2. Your old sneakers transport you to where they were last worn. Describe stepping into someone's donated shoes and finding yourself somewhere unexpected.
3. Your bathroom mirror shows glimpses of your true self and potential futures. Capture the moment you notice this change and its effect on your routine.
4. Your backpack contains infinite space where anything can be found. Write about discovering this power and pulling out something impossible during lunch.
5. Your headphones play music matching the emotions of anyone nearby. Write about a bus ride where you suddenly understand everyone's hidden feelings.

Secret Histories

6. You inherit a wristwatch that records memories of everyone who's worn it. Describe discovering you can access these memories.
7. You find notes in library book margins from readers spanning decades. Write about discovering what they're communicating with each other through time.
8. You find an old camera whose photos show the future of photographed locations. Describe your moment of discovery.
9. Objects in a thrift store jacket's pockets transport you into previous owners' memories. Write about experiencing someone else's pivotal moment.
10. One doorknob in your new home opens doors to different places depending on how it's turned. Write about your discovery.

Unexpected Purposes

11. Your phone displays what people really mean instead of what they text. Write about realizing this during a conversation that changes your understanding of a friend.
12. A paperclip reshapes itself to solve problems around you. Capture when you first notice this during a stressful study session.
13. An old teacup reveals different stories when filled with different teas. Write about discovering a story that parallels your own situation.
14. Your bedroom light bulb emits light that influences emotions. Write about realizing you can affect how people feel and the responsibility this brings.
15. Your eyeglasses translate any written text regardless of language or complexity. Write about when this reveals something you weren't supposed to know.